What you should consider before any management of the companies

Some of our customers have been prompted by TV commercials or mass-mail advertisers to consider switching their automobile insurance. Before saying "yes" to one of these propositions, we hope you will consider the following:

What do you know about this company?

Not all auto insurance companies are alike. Many support local, independent insurance agencies like ours to help with all your insurance questions or problems. Others put their resources into advertising campaigns with cute and funny animals or characters and are accessible to you only by an 800 number, and chances are you never will deal with the same individual twice.

Are they really of the same protect

Probably not. It's easy for some detection quote you a lower price if the given the same of coverage, when the same of coverage, when the same of the detection of the quotest of the same of the quotest of the protection you the same of the same o

vence Guld their offer cost you?

the could be hidden costs to you that the company won't disclose until it's too late. For example, you currently may be receiving a discount on your homeowners policy, if it's from the same company as your auto insurance. By switching, you can lose that discount. An even greater dans npanies von't tell you abou ght to cancel e first 60 days, even r coverage y have eir offer and paid market companies money first, then check laims and credit history later. something they don't like, they may cancel your policy. A cancellation on your record can make it harder (and more expensive) to get coverage from another insurance company.

Who knows you best?

We do! We take the time to get to know our customers. Your current auto insurance coverage has been crafted with your complete financial picture, your driving and claims history and your family circumstances in mind. There's no way a stranger can reach that level of understanding from a brief phone call or impersonal application form.

We want to keep you as our customer. If you receive an offer that's "too good to be true," it just might be. Before you say yes, let us look over the "fine print." We can help.
